Items of Interest from All Over the Territory.

The city council of Phoenix has formally accepted the gift of Andrew Carnegie of $25,000 for a public library, conditioned that the city furnish a site and pay $2500 annually for its maintenance.

The $11,000 in University bonds have been sold to Mayor Schumacher, of Tucson, who paid a premium of $570. The bonds run twenty years but may be recalled at any time. They bear 5 per cent interest.

A young man by the name of Conway is suffering terribly from tuberculosis in his foot. It is not generally known that this disease may occur in any other tissue as well as the lungs, but such is the case, and this instance will probably end in the amputation of the member.—Tombstone Prospector.

F. L. Blumer, the Phoenix insurance man, is in the city en route from the Patagonias, whither he went with a Chicago man to look at mining properties. Mr. Blumer is enthusiastic over that mining section, noting renewed activity at several mining camps. The Mowry, managed by J. N. Curtis, employs sixty-five men. Renewal of work at the Duquesne is apparent, preliminary, however.—Ex.

A. A. Hurley was in the city yesterday afternoon with a view to interest some mining men in a venture that he claims is a real good one. He has at his claims about forty-five miles from town struck what he is sure is a vein of radium. The stone containing this mineral has been tested in this country and some of them have been sent to France for analysis. The ones examined in this country are said to be the real thing, but that which has been sent to France has not yet been heard from.—Tucson Star.

Several carloads of ore from the Superior mine have been delivered at the Florence depot for shipment to Denver, Colorado, where the ore will be stored at the ore testing works till Manager Seiboth, of the Superior company, is ready to go there and conduct a series of tests to determine the most economical and efficient method of treating the ores at the mine on a large scale, and to also determine the character and capacity of the machinery required to successfully and economically handle the ore.—Blade.

Mr. C. B. Eaton, of Dos Cabezas, Arizona, writes the Los Angeles Mining Review under date of July 11, 1904: "Have just completed another run of fifty tons of ore at the Cottonwood mine. Results are satisfactory, both in bullion and concentrates. This mine is owned by T. G. Condon of New York city, and is under the management of Mr. F. Heileg of Oshkosh, Wisconsin. "This mine was supposed to be worked out by former owners, but these runs show that they were mistaken, a little investigation and judicious work having disclosed these chutes of ore. Work will be carried on by Mr. Heileg."

A 100 stamp mill is an accession the Magdalena section will soon secure. The mill is now ready for shipment. It is bought by the Nogales Copper company and goes to the rich Cerro Prieto mine. This is one of the best gold properties in Mexico. The leads are large and well defined and development has been satisfactory at all points on the property from the beginning. With the new equipment which in addition to the mill will include a considerable increase in power and other facilities, Cerro Prieto is with reason expected to come into greater prominence than it has ever before enjoyed and to speedily make an extensive producer.—Post.

Frank Young lost his life at the Calumet & Arizona smelter while working with other laborers in cleaning out one of the furnaces which has been in repair. Young was working in the lower part of the furnace and other men were at work in the tubular, or upper part of the furnace. The men working above loosened an immense piece of slag hanging in the furnace. Before it was realized that the mass was about to fall it tumbled below, crushing through a scaffolding under which Young was at work and pinning him without warning to the floor. The death of the man was probably instantaneous.—Douglas International-American.

R. G. Brady has deposited with his Tucson assayer samples of gold bearing ores from his mines in the Magdalena district in Sonora. These mines are a continuation of the mines controlled by Gird, Henry Levin et al, and comprise fifty-seven pertenencias. Mr. Brady has just returned from the mines after ten days' absence. He figures on great financial results as a mining man. Mr. Brady, who was a Tucson Councilman in 1888, says Sonora cattlemen are worse off than Arizona stockmen. Hay is $38 a ton, Mex., and going up. Cattle are dying by the score all the time. He added that this fact induced him to try his luck at mining and he feels good over the prospects.—Citizen.

Judge N. G. Layton, Territorial superintendent of public instruction, has been requested by I. C. Six, LL. B., secretary to the president of the University of Washington, D. C., to select two young people in the territory, either male or female, for three-year scholarships in the Washington university. The University of Washington was established on the birthday of George Washington in 1889, and for that reason was named for him. It is now being placed in excellent condition and will be made a complete university with all departments of science, literature, etc. The scholarships are free and are apportioned among the states and territories according to population. At present, Arizona receives two scholarships.

Tucson suffered from two more fires this week, a stable belonging to P. Pellon and a Congress street saloon being destroyed. The city has been having an epidemic of fires of late, the best possible argument for a fire alarm system, a steam fire engine and better equipment all around for the local volunteer fire department which is greatly handicapped. It will probably take a great conflagration to convince the city of the necessity of an up-to-date fire department, although the municipal authorities are now considering the purchase of a fire alarm system. The list of late fires includes the Tucson ice plant, the Tucson planing mill, buildings in the rear of Samuel Hughes' residence, Cohen's store and the two fires of this week.—Ex.

No Head Tax on Mexicans.

In an interview with George Webb, head of the Chinese immigration bureau at this place, it was learned that the story published by a morning paper in regard to the immigration tax, is all wrong Mr. Webb said:

"The head tax law does not apply to citizens of Mexico or the United States or Canadians, either. It is only in cases where immigrants are coming from some other country through Mexico or Canada that they are taxed $2."

"For awhile the officials at El Paso misunderstood the law and collected a head tax of $2 from every person crossing the line from Mexico, but the Department of Labor and Commerce put a stop to that very quickly, for the law distinctly classifies the persons to be taxed."

"Of course, no paupers are allowed to come into this country, and every immigrant, Mexican or otherwise, must show some means of support."

"The Department of the Interior," concluded Mr. Webb, "has nothing whatever to do with the case, for it comes under the jurisdiction of the Department of Commerce and Labor."—Tucson Citizen.

Misguided Patriotism.

Some misguided Phoenix patriot almost committed murder on Saturday night. He stole a beer keg from Louis Meizer's place and taking it to the corner of Adams and Second avenue he filled it with dynamite or some other explosive and touched it off. A beer keg is a pretty strong receptacle but it could not stand against such a load as had been put into it. Pieces of the staves were hurled in every direction and a rain of them fell about a citizen and a little boy who happened to be passing. Fragments of the keg were found a block and a half from the scene of the explosion. A great hole was torn in the ground and even fence posts in the neighborhood were thrown down. This is the kind of patriotism that fills well meaning people with apprehension as the natal day approaches. Those whose relatives are killed or maimed regret that the British did not get the best of it so that there would be nothing to celebrate.—Phoenix Republican.

Dr. Goodfellow.

Dr. Geo. Goodfellow has been in Tucson during the last two days. He is returning from a trip to the Atlantic coast states. The Doctor is a political observer. He predicts the defeat of Roosevelt because the people fear him. He says that the larger money interests are against him, and the sentiment is quite prevalent among republicans that Parker will be elected. Roosevelt's danger he says is in his own party. Dr. Goodfellow was a long-time resident of Arizona and is accepted as one of the most eminent physicians and surgeons of the land.—Star.
